January 21, 2016

Trail #87

Thursday 1/21 @ 6:30pm

Giant Eagle Market District Waterworks - 910 Freeport Rd, Pittsburgh, PA 15238

Join Cuffed and Battered, Scrum Guzzler, and Porn Again Christian at the Giant Eagle located in Pittsburgh's little slice of heaven that is the Waterworks Mall. The only reason this trail is possible is because the sewage plant across the street caused the mall to be within city limits. So if the trail is shit you can blame the city not us. ID is required to buy beer. On after is in the parking lot with Major and a plate of cold cuts.

Trail #87 Review by Major Pecker

I gotta say, it was pretty convenient to start trail at a grocery store. Snacks and spare flashlights were easy to come by. Plus, it was amusing to watch the new bartenders try to figure out how to serve more than the 5 people at the bar... by the time we left I think there were three bartenders and a manager all behind the counter trying to figure it out. Since it was one of the first properly cold trails of the year (and our GM wasn't there to tell us otherwise) we skipped the blessing of the hares and simply had a Borneo Start to chalk talk. I guess the hares were worried about incurring the wrath of Giant Eagle.

The hares immediately sent us through the hospital parking lot, where we got the chance to thoroughly startle some old ladies heading in for medical attention. Fortunately we were too fast for hospital security to react. It's important to note that this was the first PITT trail of the year with significant snow on the ground, and the hares kindly took this into account by adding a teaspoon of red chalk to their 10lbs of flour. After determining which blobs of near-white were flour, we zipped up some hills to enjoy a delicious shot stop specially prepared by Porn Again. Thanks for sharing your "illegal in Pennsylvania" liquor with all of us. Especially standing next to scenic route 28, there's nothing like hanging out next to 65 MPH traffic in the middle of the night.

The hares then took us to the world-famous Fireman's Park, and led us on a nice screw around the playground before finally letting us enjoy some beer. This stop did afford a pretty nice view of the city, so I can't really complain. After some beers, we went back down the hill into some of the neighborhoods of Aspinwall. Here the hares made up for the nice view of the first beer stop by sticking us on an access road between the paint store and the mattress factory. At this stop, Bend Overture, Just Jeff, and MiniCockter attempted to throw snacks into each other's mouths, but they mostly ended up ground into the asphalt (along with a good chunk of MiniCockter's knee).

We had a seemingly endless run along the slippery Freeport road until we got to the only likely circle location – the riverfront park next to the water treatment plant. For some reason, all of the hashers completely avoided the huge metal man/playground – fortunately afterward Tight Embouchure, Shameless Cussy, Double-Stuffed, and I played with the giant man after circle. Once again we had Potty Guard run a lovely (and mostly under-control) circle, while Moon just sat on his lazy ass and blinded us all with his shiny scalp reflecting in the moonlight. Shit trail.

SONG OF THE WEEK

I'm Your Mailman

To the tune of Bye Bye Blackbird

Here I come I'm on my way

I can come twice a day

I'm your mailman

Knockers Knockers, ring your bell

You must think I'm really swell

I'm your mailman

I can come in any kind of weather

For you see my sack is made of leather

I don't mess with keys or locks

I just shove it in your box

I'm your mailman
