Trail #104

Who: Creamy, Sweetums, Shanghiney

When: Thursday 6/9/16 @ 6:30 pm

Where: Mitchell's Bar - 304 Ross St, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania 15219

Arts fest, penguins home game, downtown traffic, oh my! Yes tomorrow night downtown is going to explode, but what better way to enjoy the chaos than by contributing to it by hashing right through the chaos. Sweetums, Shanghiney, and Mushroom will be having a friendly and fun trail that will be over in time to watch the end of the game. Come join in the pandemonium!

Traffic and parking are likely to be a nightmare, so arriving downtown by bike or bus or T is preferred. If you do insist on driving the attendant for the lot behind Mitchell's told me there might be *some* parking spaces available.

Trail is dog friendly but Mitchell's is not.

Trail #104 Review by IHOP

Holy shit! Pens playoff game! [F]arts in the Park! Downtown parking will be virtually nonexistent. The sidewalks will be packed. Dogs and cats living together!! Mass hysteria!!!!

What better time than this to run a god damn hash through?!

Our misadventure began at Mitchell's Restaurant & Bar. A charming little place with a decent food and beer list that was certainly adequate for a pre-lube...that is, if we ever got the chance to try anything. I felt my joints ache and beard grow long as we anxiously awaited the bartender(s) to make eye contact and serve those who were patiently standing by the bar waving "dolla dolla bills y'all". Much to my dismay, the moment the vacant beer maiden behind the bar finally locked eyes and I tried to request in my outdoor voice what I required, she simply turned 90 degrees and helped the popped-collar bro-bro in the white sunglasses that just walked up! (Disclaimer: we eventually got some service)

Chalk talk was led by ManGurglar in the doorway just next to Mitchell's. With the hares blessed and given a very...very...very long lead time, the pack was eventually released upon the masses. On we went through the city. Around people! Dodging cars! The danger and thrill was palpable!!! We saw pens fans, sharks fans, muggles, thugs, police officers, bums, aristocrats, and puppies! After a series of well laid and abundant chalk marks, and a song check nearly in the middle of an intersection, we finally made it to the point. We were greeted by several other hashers who were babysitting a cooler being beer stop #1. Additionally the greens were being patrolled by the fuzz so discretion was in full swing to avoid trouble.

After a quiet respite at Point State Park and jammin' to whatever the hell was playing on stage, we were off! It wasn't long after departing PSP though, that we rounded a corner and what did we spy behind a building column? Why it was two of our noble hares! Shameless Cussy claimed the necklaces of both hares on set them free on the city. Sweetums channeled his best Kermit the Frog impression and attempted to evade capture with arms and legs flailing. Ol' Cream of Mushroom seemed displeased with being found. Rather than making his great escape Sweetums style, the salty Mushroom just told us to make our way to Market Square rather than follow trail. ON ON! What was going on there behind that column? What were our two hares up to? Where in the hell was Shanghiney?

Not surprisingly, Market Square was a rave and no one could find the beer, including our fearless hare Sweetums! Like good little harriers, we sniffed out the beer and settled in for the Pens game with hundreds of our closest Pens fan friends (although not the kind of friends that share beer). After spending roughly 18 hours at this stop, we were off again! The remainder of trail including a song stop that few cared about and confusing marks that lead harriers wondering aimlessly. The course was so brutal, I came upon Spermit limping the last few blocks into circle. Apparently the trail led him straight off a curb and into a concrete wall! Ever the good hasher, he followed the marks to the T.

Circle started in a parking lot conveniently located behind the Public Defender's office and Port Authority office. We accused, we sang, we moved out of the way of cars trying to flee our parking lot party. On such a majestic night, we felt we had to name Just Michelle. She regaled us with her beautiful tale of tampon excavation and the names practically wrote themselves. Toxic Shocker? No for this hasher. She was christened Somewhere Up My Vagina (sung to the tune of Somewhere Over the Rainbow)!!!!

Shit Trail,

International House of Poo
